TROUBLE IN THE CAMP

An Exciting Day For the Western Commonwealers.

NOW AT COUNCIL BLUFFS, IA.

Citizens Demand Transportation East For Kelly and His Men, but Are Refused by the Railroad Officials—Women Join in the Movement—A Seized Train Declined by Kelly—Coxey's Movements.

OMAHA, April 21.—Three thousand laboring men marched out of Omaha yesterday with banners flying bound for the camp of General Kelly's commonwealers at Weston, Ia., 14 miles east of Council Bluffs. It was done upon the signal agreed upon at a meeting of the Central Labor union—the ringing of church bells and the blowing of whistles was given—announcing that Kelly's army was still at Weston, unable to secure a train for the east.

Inside of five minutes 1,000 men had gathered at Jefferson square, and were quickly organized into companies with a captain for every 10 men. The march was then taken up through the principal streets. At every street recruits were received, and when the column reached the Paxton hotel there were 2,500 men in line. Each company was provided with an American flag, and as fast as recruits joined they were formed into companies and provided with banners.

At Eleventh and Farnum streets the main column was met by a detachment of 500 men. They joined forces and proceeded to the Douglass street bridge across the Missouri river. It had been expected that the Union Pacific shopmen would join the column at this point, but that part of the program was not carried out, for the company warned the men when they came to work that those working would be expected to remain on duty all day.

All the men seemed to be in excellent spirits and determined that the march should mean business. The column had been preceded to Council Bluffs by a committee of prominent citizens, appointed at the meeting of the Central Labor union. The committee was to call on Governor Jackson and the managers of the railroads and urge that the commonwealers be at once started on their way east.

While the column was marching towards the Missouri, General Kelly was in Omaha seated in the private car of President St. John of the Rock Island road holding an animated conference. Mr. St. John said, in response to a request for a train, that he was not in a position to grant it even should he desire to do so, as the matter was now wholly in the hands of the presidents of the Iowa Trunk lines and no one road could grant a request for a train unless the presidents of all the other lines agreed.

General Kelly then left the car and called on other friends for advice. A prominent man suggested that the army levy on the farmers for horses and wagons; that the army be split up into squads of 100 men each, and that they spread out over a stretch of territory 25 miles wide and march on foot across the state. It was suggested that such a plan would soon bring the people of the state to time, for the army would practically devastate the country through which it passes, and the railroads would then be forced to take the commonwealers up and carry them out of the country.

General Kelly said the plan seemed to him a good one and he thought it might be tried. He agreed to call a council of his officers and place the plan before them. After deliberation, if they agreed to it, the plan would be adopted. The general later left for Council Bluffs. It is said that some of the anarchists who were in the column marching out of Omaha had some dynamite with them, but how much is not known.

When General Kelly reached Council Bluffs an interview was at once held with Governor Jackson and the attorney general. The interview was a prolonged one, mostly a monologue, for Governor Jackson took occasion to review in detail all the sections he had taken, the purport being that he had taken every means possible to get the army on its way, and that the state authorities had not laid a straw of detention in its way.

His correspondence with railway officials had resulted in nothing so far as Northwestern, Milwaukee and St. Paul and the Burlington were concerned, they refusing to do anything. The Rock Island at first suggested that they might take half the army to Davenport if the St. Paul would take the other half to the river, the railways to be paid a fair rate, as might seem just to the governor. The governor had agreed to recompense the roads, although there was no authority for him to put his hand into the state treasury for that purpose.

This proposition to take the men across the state had been recalled later, and now the railways would do nothing but transport them as other passengers at full rates. He notified Kelly that the citizens of Council Bluffs had arranged to furnish boats to take the army to Kansas City and to provide them with shelter here and ample provisions while the preparations for this trip were being made.

Kelly replied that he preferred to go east, but he would take the proposition to his camp, let the boys decide and he would wire back his answer.

A committee composed of the best citizens of the city sent the following messages to the presidents of the Iowa Trunk lines:

Kelly's army is at Weston exposed to the elements with provisions for two days; are suffering, but patient, and united in their determination to go through. Have thus far committed no trespass whatever; are orderly and obedient to all commands or their leaders, and are being furnished with provisions by the charity of the people of Iowa. We have thrown the responsibility upon our state officers for the great gravity of the situation. Can you not, gentlemen, for the great corporations you represent, assume to do, in the interests of humanity, what you would not be justified in doing except in this emergency?

This was at once followed by this one: To Roswell Miller, R. R. Cable, Marvin Hughitt, Chicago:

From the government building we are reviewing a procession of 30,000 citizens of Omaha. We understand they have come over to demand with force of numbers that something be done to provide transportation for Kelly's army. The citizens are now headed towards the Milwaukee tracks. If you were here you would realize that something should be done at once. We appeal to you to help relieve this community from the impending danger that threatens and relieve the sufferings of these men, which has aroused these communities.

This was signed by judges of the supreme and district courts, clerk of the federal court and the postmaster.

While the committee which had devised the second message was still in the telegraph office another committee was clamoring for the attention of the manager to send another message to the presidents of the roads. It was as follows: "Omaha and Council Bluffs request immediate transportation for Kelly's army from Council Bluffs to Chicago."

It was 3 o'clock before replies were received from the messages to the railway presidents denying the request, and then the conference between the citizens' committee and the railway officials ended. The information that no train would be furnished was conveyed to the waiting thousands who had congregated about the courthouse to await the coming of Chairman Tichenor. Reaching the grounds, he elbowed his way through the crowd and ascended the courthouse steps. When he announced the result of the conference it was greeted with roars of howls, jeers and hisses.

After making a short address he stated the committee had decided to wait until 4 o'clock, at which hour, if no train was furnished, one would be taken and run out to Kelly's camp, where his men would be loaded on and started on their journey. He spoke in strong terms against violence, and cautioned the men against any destruction of property. As soon as the meeting on the courthouse square adjourned, led by a band and with thousands of flags, the men formed in line and marched to Bayliss park.

While the committee of Omaha men was interviewing the governor in Attorney General Stone's office a somewhat similar and yet decidedly different scene was being enacted in the law office of Wright & Baldwin. About 25 women, in response to a call issued during the early morning, had collected at Doherty's opera house, and under the leadership of Mrs. Fred Herman went to see Mr. Baldwin.

The ladies had formed a notion among themselves that Baldwin was an ogre who ate small babies for breakfast, and they were consequently prepared to use tears in unlimited quantities in getting him to subscribe to the idea of furnishing transportation for the Kellyites eastward. One group of women tackled Baldwin and another Wright. The interview was exciting to some, amusing to others and profitable to no one. Mr. Baldwin explained that it was impossible for him to act contrary to the desires of the railway officials to whose orders he was subject. He referred the ladies to the governor.

The ladies succeeded in adding to the general tumult, but obtained but little satisfaction from the governor. Mrs. Hermann said she had just completed an organization of 300 ladies of Council Bluffs and that if other means to aid Kelly in his onward march failed, she and her followers would take possession of a train, seeing that it reached Chicago. This lady is working in conjunction with the committees and is backed by the entire committee.

All the eastern railways in this city pulled their engines and cars out of Council Bluffs, as prompt action seemed necessary to avoid trouble. About this time fully 2,000 more men crossed the bridge from Omaha into Council Bluffs on the way to join the crowd that preceded them.

When all hope of securing a train from the officials had vanished the crowd went aimlessly from Bayliss park, where it had listened to the addresses of the leaders. The leaders had vanished and the men were getting restless in the cold, when from the south came marching 300 women, headed by Mrs. Hermann.

This gave new life to the men, and when the women proposed to go to the transfer and take a train the march was quickly started in that direction. At the transfer an effort was made to take a fast mail engine, but it failed. Then when the men seemed ready to quit again one young woman, who stood by a group of Union Pacific engineers, said: "If I was a man I would have an engine."

This was all that was needed. A big Union Pacific bridge engine was standing there. Veteran Engineer Nick Weeks had his head out of the window. His son, George, also a Union Pacific engineer, called on him to get down and he did so. In a few moments the men had 10 bridge engines and were busily engaged searching the yards for empties. Finally they were found and were soon on the way to Weston.

Kelly's army was anxiously waiting results of efforts of friends in Omaha and Council Bluffs. No trains had passed them since 11 o'clock in the morning, and the rumors are so conflicting that they knew not what to expect. The people near there are imitating the example of Omaha's citizens and are giving the army food. Twenty-one citizens of Persia filled several wagons with provisions and drove over here. They could not get the railways to move the provisions. The citizens of Underwood sent over a load of comforts and blankets, and there have been many visitors to the camp.

The Milwaukee company ran all their trains and cars out from the Bluffs in the morning and then pulled up their tracks near Neola, so that if the men captured a train they could not get far.

Aside from telegraphic communication, the place is cut off from the outside world.

When word was received that 6,000 men had captured a Union Pacific train in the Bluffs and were on their way to the camp, Agent Chittenden, at Weston, sent for the section boss, who was ordered to take his men and tear up enough of the Rock Island track west of the switch to prevent trains from passing the town. Work was begun at once, but before it proceeded far, the Kellyites had surrounded the sectionmen and persuaded them to desist.

The sectionmen threw down their tools, only one rail having been removed. Kelly's men quickly replaced the rail and drove home the spikes. Then Agent Chittenden came up and ordered the sectionmen to tear up the track again. His deliberate attempt to wreck the train aroused the wrath of the Kellyites. Their demonstrations were such that the agent fled back to the depot, followed by the sectionmen.

Kelly declined even to go back to Council Bluffs. He said it would put his men in the light of law breakers.

"Let us take your men back," was urged, and so six men who are disabled were put on board.

Kelly has issued an appeal to the citizens of Iowa and Nebraska to aid him with trains and wagons to transport his camp equipment, and will start across the country on foot.

Appeals were made during the day for the protection of railroad property, but nothing was disturbed.

It was reported that Governor Jackson had applied to General Brooke, commanding the department of the Platte, for federal troops, but General Brooke denied that any such request had been made. There is still much feeling, and Kelly's return to Council Bluffs may awaken another storm.

The Union Pacific sent the eastbound passengers around to connect with the Northwestern at Blair, Neb., so the latter company would not need to run trains to Council Bluffs.

Ex-Congressman W. M. Pusey of Council Bluffs is on his way to Chicago in company with General Manager St. John of the Rock Island to urge President Cable to give the men a train.

FORCED TO PAY TOLL.

It Cost Coxey Ninety-Eight Cents to Enter Hagerstown.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., April 21.—The march of the commonweal over from Williamsport was made under most favorable conditions. The pike was dry but dustless, all the trees and fields green with the recent rains, and at one of the halts by a rusty pump the ragged, hardened and cold gathered and drank deep of the cold water as though they had never known any other beverage.

At the tollgate, a mile outside of Hagerstown, there was a delay, the old white haired gateman refused to let the army pass without paying tolls on the horses. Browne declared that this was another extortion of monopolists and ordered forward the flag. The old gateman respectfully doffed his hat to the stars and stripes, but shut down the bars tight on the horsemen and carriages. Corey was forced to pay 98 cents toll.

Frye's Army.

MARSHALL, Ills., April 21.—General Frye's army of commonwealers arrived here yesterday afternoon from the west, numbering about 160 men. They camped in the city hall and the citizens furnished them with supper and breakfast. They then began the march to Terre Haute, Indiana.

APPROPRIATION BILLS.

Their Path Through the House May Be Strewn With Thorns.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—There is prospect that the path of the appropriation bills pending in the house may not be as easy as congressional leaders have expected. Representative Cannon of Illinois has been asking questions on the various items of the diplomatic and consular bill, so that instead of being passed in an hour and a half as was anticipated, it has been a center of contention for three legislative days.

The plan has been to get the bills out of the way at a very early day, so that the house might hold the senate to account for delays on the tariff and could also take up public bills other than for appropriations. However, Mr. Cannon's course, if applied to the other bill, will extend the debate for some weeks, as the routine of going in and out of committee of the whole consumes much time.

"I have no disposition to delay the appropriation bills," Mr. Cannon said, "but I do not intend to let them be railroaded through the house. I will call attention to all increases in expenditures and to all decreases which threaten the deficiency of the public service."

Failed to Nominate a Candidate.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 21.—The Republicans failing to nominate a congressman after adjourning at midnight, after the 47th ballot, met again yesterday. After the 73d ballot yesterday afternoon a motion to adjourn until called together by the district committee was carried.

Overrun With Burglars.

ELWOOD, Ind., April 21.—Exceeding a dozen private residences were burglarized last night and over $500 in money and gold watches was secured. The police will put bloodhounds on the scent and two will arrive from Seymour for that purpose.

AN ERROR CORRECTED

The Behring Sea Bill Entirely Changed by One Word.

DIFFERENT MEANING ENTIRELY

A Special Bill Introduced and Passed by the Senate Making the Change—Coxey's Movement Comes Up in the Senate—Tariff Talk Resumed—Nothing Accomplished in the House.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—When the senate was called to order yesterday Senator Sherman, from the committee on foreign relations, reported a bill for the correction of an error in the Behring sea bill recently passed. By the substitution of the word "exclusive" for "inclusive," the intention of the act, he said, had been entirely changed. The bill was passed.

The resolution introduced recently by Senator Allen calling on the secretary of the treasury for the amount of appropriation made and expended for the improvements of rivers and harbors from March 3, 1837, to date, was passed.

The Peffer resolution for the appointment of a reception committee for Coxey's army of the commonweal to be known in senate parlance as "The Common Communications," came up a few minutes before 1 o'clock, but in those few minutes it received some very rough handling.

When 10 o'clock arrived, the resolution went over without action, and the tariff bill being laid before the senate, Mr. Gallinger of New Hampshire spoke against the bill. He was followed by Senators McMillan and Dolph, both speaking against the bill.

Then the senate, at 5:03 p. m., went into executive session, and at 5:55 adjourned.

In the House.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The proceedings in the house were very uninteresting. Practically no business was transacted. Under the rules, it being Friday, the day was devoted to business on the private calendar. Three small unimportant bills were passed, and the rest of the day was spent in the fruitless discussion of a bill to settle some Tennessee war claims against the government amounting to $23,000. It was finally ended when Mr. Enloe made the point of no quorum on a motion to recommit the bill. The evening session was devoted to pension business.

NOT MUCH IMPROVED.

Labor Troubles Having Its Effects in Business Transactions.

NEW YORK, April 21.—R. G. Dun & Company's weekly review of trade says: New orders for future distribution are still materially restricted by uncertainty about action at Washington, and about the extent and outcome of labor difficulties. Most of the recovery realized in business has been made possible by the consent of workers to accept lower wages for a time, and if they insist on restoration of wages before consumption has restored prices many works must stop. The great strike threatened by bituminous coal miners and strikes of associated employes on some railroads make the future less hopeful.

Exports of gold had some influence, and continuing loss in earnings some. Earnings for April thus far decrease 13.4 per cent, against 14.1 in February and 13.4 in March. Demoralization of lake freights already diverts much bulky eastbound tonnage from the railroads, though the movement of other merchandise is well sustained.

The failures of the past week have been somewhat more important than usual, but were 219 in the United States against 186 last year, and 45 in Canada against 22 last year. For the first half of April liabilities reported have been $4,168,410, of which $2,082,550 were of manufacturing and $1,904,367 of trading concerns.

SUSPECT A SUICIDE CLUB.

An Indianapolis Drug Clerk Follows His Friend's Example.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 21.—Rodney Metzger Thursday night purchased a new suit of clothing, a new pair of shoes, went home, put them on, bid his parents good night and drank half an ounce of prussic acid, and was found dead by his mother in the morning.

He was a drug clerk and on intimate terms with Dr. McKinney, who worked for the same druggist, and who took his life exactly in the same manner only a few months ago. Metzger was of a jovial disposition, had a good paying position and appeared to be happy. The coroner and his friends suspect that there is a suicide club here and that Metzger and Dr. McKinney were members.

The Czarowitch Engaged.

COBURG, April 21.—The betrothal is announced of the czarowitch (Grand Duke Nicholas) to the Princess Alix Victoria Helena Louise Beatrice of Hesse. A few days ago it was reported that the czarowitch intended resigning his succession to the throne in favor of his younger brother, the Grand Duke Michael. The belief was that this action was contemplated on account of the opposition of the czar to his marriage with the Princess Alix. It was also stated at the time that the czarowitch would never marry.

Brick Masons Quit Work.

RICHMOND, Ind., April 21.—All the brick masons here quit work yesterday. They demanded that on Saturdays they work but eight hours and receive pay for nine hours' work. Contractors refused, hence the strike. A conference all day in session failed to bring a compromise.

JOAN OF ARC.

The New Saint to Be Glorified by the French Catholics Sunday.

PARIS, April 21.—Sunday is to be devoted by the Catholic world here to the honor and glory of the venerable Johanna of Lorraine, commonly known as Joan of Arc. The faithful are in an archiepiscopal "mantemento" asked to enter into her teens through the sacrament of the eucharist. One of the grandest processional and musical festivals Notre Dame ever witnessed is to take place. The archbishop has left the task of organizing it to the Catholic societies. About 7,000 persons will be admitted, as on ordinary occasions, to the nave and some of the galleries, but the rest of the places will be reserved.

The archbishop has invited the government to this national patriotic and pious celebration with the governor of Paris and his staff. General De Sausser sends his First regimental bands to accompany the Te Deum, which is to be sung in sign of thanksgiving, the church having decided that Johanna of Lorraine is entitled to the veneration, not only of France, but of all Christendom. The other dioceses which will particularly join with the metropolitan in heart, mind and spirit are Orleans, which she delivered; St. Die, in which she was born; Rheims, to which she brought Charles VII to be crowned, and Rouen, where she was martyred.

All the towns whose names are associated with Joan will have their banners hung out from the gallery of Notre Dame. Their arms on shields will be fastened to the pillars, and tricolored flags grouped around them. Four hundred pounds subscribed by rich volunteers of Joan have been spent in an embroidered flag copied from the one she held in conducting the king to Rheims. It is of thick white silk, dotted over with gold fleurs-de-lis, having in the center an image of the Virgin with Jesus in her arms. Another flag, still more costly, is in three divisions. In the central one is the Virgin and the Child, and in the two others scenes from the life of Joan embroidered in needlework. They were ordered when a confidential intimation was sent from Rome that Joan's right to be counted "venerable" would be admitted. The service will end with these flags being borne in solemn procession round the cathedral and placed at the feet of the statue of the Virgin on the right of the entrance of the chancel. This statue is surrounded with a gilt railing and under a gold embroidered blue canopy. It dates from the 15th century and was the one before which Joan's mother and the companions of her childhood said their prayers when they came to Paris to give evidence in the suit for the rehabilitation of the maid. The posthumous trial was held in the cathedral of Notre Dame, and all the evidence in Joan's favor which has been handed down was there produced and collected.

CAR THIEVES CAUGHT.

They Had Systematically Robbed the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company.

WASHINGTON, Ind., April 21.—For the last two months there has been a systematic plundering of Baltimore and Ohio freightcars between this city and Vincennes. Merchandise was usually taken. At least $2,000 worth of goods have been stolen. Efforts to capture the thieves have heretofore proven futile.

About 10 days ago the railway traffic managers sent two detectives here to work up the case. Thursday night one of the detectives and Marshal Cavanaugh pursued some parties in a wagon thought to be loaded with stolen plunder from Wheatland to Edwardsport, but failed to overtake them. The parties reached this city ahead of the officers.

About 8 o'clock that night James Johnson, a suspicious character, was placed under arrest, and in his confession he gave pointers, upon which the officers immediately acted. The detectives and night police were deployed along the railway track before daylight, and after a lively struggle, they were successful in capturing Rolla Massey and Logan Hodge, each having in his possession about $10 worth of stolen property.

William Cochran, an ex-convict, who has served a sentence at Joliet, was with Massey and Hodge, but he escaped. The officers' pistols failing to bring him down, Massey told where the gang concealed the stolen property, and the officers went to the resort managed by Ella Cochran, where they found four trunks filled with dry goods.

Mrs. Cochran and three of the inmates were placed under arrest. She claimed that she did not know what the trunks contained, as they belonged to her husband, William Cochran, who escaped. The arrests made by the officers are considered important.

Congressman Brown Seriously Ill.

COLUMBUS, Ind., April 21.—The condition of Congressman Gason B. Brown, who is suffering with smokers' cancer, is alarmingly ill. His friends fear he can not recover sufficiently to continue in the congressional race. There is danger that his disease may prove fatal soon.

Murder at a Logrolling.

ALSEY, Ky., April 21.—At a logrolling near here yesterday, Mack Gott shot and killed George Bell. The men were drinking and quarreled. Bell tried to brain Gott with an ax when he drew a revolver and fired the fatal shot. Both are prominent farmers.

Engaged in a Shooting Affray.

LITTLE ROCK, April 21.—J. Morgan, and John Mason, rival merchants at Harris, Ark., engaged in a shooting affray yesterday, in which both received fatal injuries. The trouble grew out of business matters.

The Ledger says the new quorum counting rule adopted by the House of Representatives is "just the same" as "Czar" Reed's rule. If the Ledger will publish the two rules, its readers will find they are not "just the same," and no one will have any trouble telling "t'other from which."

A WEEK or so ago it was heralded all over the country that the Republicans had carried Bloomington, Ill., Vice President Stevenson's home, and the impression created by the dispatches was that it was something unusual for Mr. Stevenson's home to go Republican. The truth of the matter, however, is that Bloomington is generally Republican. It even gave the G. O. P. a majority in 1892 against its favorite son, the Vice President.

THE Populist editors are dropping into poetry. One of them writes: "The chinch bug eats the farmer's grain, the bee moth spoils the honey, the bed bug fills him full of pain, but the hum bug scoops in his money." Another brother very poetically adds: "The lightning bug can't thunder much, the bed bug has its fame, gold bug has no argument, but he gets there just the same."

MISSOURI has a lawsuit which bids fair to rival the famous Jones county (Iowa) calf case. John Carroll and Thomas Hancock, of Mercer County, in that state, are at law over one Berkshire hog valued at $7. The case has already been through three courts at an expense of $800, but the litigants are only getting their second wind. They are now girding up their loins for the final struggle in the Supreme Court.

AT Shepherdsville at the recent term of the Bullitt Circuit Court Charles Carroll, a prominent Democrat and lawyer, was suspended from the practice of law in Kentucky for the term of twelve months, or until he shall have paid J. M. Robinson & Co., of Louisville, $265.79, being money collected by him as attorney and not accounted for. He is a brother of Hon. A. J. Carroll, Speaker of the Kentucky House and is now in Oklahoma.

THE men's meeting will be resumed in the Y. M. C. A. hall Sunday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock. All men and strangers cordially invited to attend. Some business of vast importance will be transacted. Come out, you new converts, and begin work for your Lord and Master. Good singing and pleasant time assured. Bring some one with you and let's keep up the glorious work begun in our midst by Brother Fife. Take a firm stand lest the wiles of Satan prevail and our city again falls back.

UNITED STATES MARSHAL GEORGE A. CRUMP and deputies passed over the C. and O. railroad Thursday evening with a batch of fifteen prisoners. They were from Texas and other southern points and were being taken to a penitentiary in New York. Just before the train reached South Portsmouth one of the prisoners made his escape, and has not been recaptured. His name is Henry Ritter, and he is an Arkansas train robber. He is five feet seven inches high, has dark complexion, dark keen eyes, small black mustache, dressed in dark striped sack coat, pink shirt, duck overalls and brogan shoes. The C. and O. offers a reward of $25 for his arrest.

THE "BLACK KNOT."

Representative Matthews Gives Some Valuable Information Concerning a Disease

That Has Proved Very Destructive to Plum and Cherry Trees. The New Law.

Hon. Walter Matthews, of Mayslick, Mason County's Representative in the last Legislature, was the author of the bill passed to provide for the extermination of the disease known as "black knot" that has proved so destructive to plum and cherry trees of late years. At the suggestion of the BULLETIN, Mr. Matthews has prepared an article on the subject, which is published for the information of fruit growers and the public in general. He says:

"As early as 1819 Prof. W. D. Peck, of Cambridge, Mass., attributed the cause of this disease in plum and cherry trees to insects. The fact that eggs, or larva, of the curculio were commonly found in the tissue of the knots has been a strong argument with many in support of the Peck theory, while others believe the knots to be caused by a species of gall fly. However, none of the beetles, including curculio, are known to be gall-producing insects, and it was so argued by the entomologist, B. D. Walsh, in a paper published in 1864. Other early writers attributed the cause to a diseased condition of the sap, which, of course, explains nothing. Various theories have been advanced, some very near the true cause, at different times, but up to 1872 little was known of the fungus. In that year Prof. C. H. Peck, State Botanist of New York, gave the first correct account of it, followed by a full and complete one of the life and history of the fungus, by Dr. W. G. Farlow, of Harvard, in 1876, which remains to-day as the accepted theory of all scientists on the cause of the disease.

"The true cause of the disease is due to a low form of parasitic fungus. None of this order bear true seed and are propagated by spores or simple cells. Smut on corn and wheat belong to this genus. Nearly or quite all of them are parasitic in their habits. An interesting experiment may be obtained by taking a granule of smut and placing it in water at a temperature of fifty-five to sixty degrees for a few days and noting the changes.

"It is now an established fact that summer and winter spores are matured. The 'knots' may first be noticed in the fall as a slight swelling of the part, and if carefully inspected it will be found that numbers of thread-like fibers have penetrated the inner bark, causing the enlarged condition of the surface. This swelling continues in the spring until the bark of the tree is ruptured, allowing the protrusion of numerous points of the fungi threads. On these and near the ends are borne the summer spores which are developed about the month of May, and about midsummer turn black. Having ripened and discharged the summer spores this part is no longer active, except possibly about the margin, which may continue to grow and develop winter spores ready for germination about January.

"The spores may be distributed by accidental and natural causes. When carried by the wind many fall on other trees that in turn become distributing points for infection.

"The cultivation of these spores by artificial means, in an infusion of prunes on bread, has been accomplished successfully by several persons whose reports I have and would prefer to publish them, but refrain from doing so for lack of space.

"So destructive has become this disease, says Dr. Farlow, that in 1875 a peck of damsons was sold in the Boston market for $2.50 and in parts of New England nearly or quite all of certain varieties of cherries and plum trees have been destroyed. Having noticed for more than twenty years the destruction of plum trees and having lost some cherry trees myself from this disease, and recognizing the almost universal want of correct information as to the true cause of the trouble was my inducement for offering the bill, passed at the last session of our General Assembly. Such course has been commended, since the enactment, by Dr. Gorman, Entomologist and Botanist at our Experiment Station located at Lexington; Dr. Halstead, Botanist and Horticulturist of New Jersey, who also asked for a copy of the law, he having suggested such course in an article for the 'Garden and Forest' published in the issue April 16th, 1890.

"During the pending of the bill a communication from Dr. Erwin F. Smith, who is in charge of the division of Vegetable Pathology at Washington, D. C., was read in the Senate chamber, resulting in every Senator present voting favorably. This letter was written Feb. 13th, on the same day of the issue of the BULLETIN containing the publication of Mr. Jno. A. Coburn's article claiming the 'bag worm' to be the cause of 'black knot.' I refer him and others so believing to Bulletin 47, page 25, of our Experiment Station, where a good description of the habits and life of this insect is given.

"Our only hope in the present state of knowledge on the subject for the control of the disease consists in burning the parts affected as indicated in the law recently passed. It has been stated that when a branch or limb is cut off and left on the ground the spores will be ripened and will grow, therefore to be effective it must be burned before the spores are ripened and discharged. One careless or negligent person in a neighborhood will make non-effective the work of all the others. Hence the necessity of the law.

"In conclusion I desire to acknowledge my indebtedness to Dr. H. Gorman, of Lexington, Ky., J. C. Humphreys, B. S. Mycologist, Dr. C. A. Goessmann, of Amherst, Massachusetts, and Dr. Byron D. Halstead, of New Brunswick, New Jersey, for valuable information, and also to Senator S. J. Pugh for his aid during the pending of the bill in the Senate."

For the Farmer.

Some things have been learned of late years in regard to potatoes. This is the most salable and profitable crop grown. It costs but a little more than corn, but it yields nearly ten times as much as corn. An exchange says: "The seed should be deprived of the top end, where many eyes are gathered together, unless it is cut small. Three stems together are enough. In cutting the seed, which should be selected of medium-sized tubers, the top end is removed and kept for the fowls or pigs, the best use for them, and the remainder are cut lengthwise in two pieces. A tuber the size of a hen's egg is the best. The seed is best placed eighteen inches apart in rows thirty-six inches apart. A vigorous plant will meet its neighbor in the next row at this distance. This is a potato crop, and wood ashes, which contain potash and lime, is the best fertilizer for it."

The Carlisle Mercury says Colonel Thompson S. Parks, of Nicholas County, has a field in which he has planted corn for fifty-three years, save one, and that year he planted rye, and it grew so rank it could not be harvested. Each of the fifty-two corn crops were large yields, and last year's was extra good.

UPHEAVAL IN THE OCEAN.

Shoals and Current Where They Have Not Heretofore Existed Indicating a Volcano.

NEW ORLEANS, April 21.—Captain Gerchon of the steamer Professor Morse, from Puerto Cortez, Honduras, reports that Tuesday noon, when he was about 125 miles from the Passes, in latitude 27 and longitude 88:28, the ship entered a large patch of green water, and there was every indication of a shoal of large extent. He said that the green water extended on every side as far as he could see, and there were ripples plainly visible, as in a river.

The ship sailed for six hours, or a distance of 50 miles, before getting over the shoal, and immediately a strong current was met flowing in a south-southeast direction at the rate of two knots an hour. The discovery of this shoal dumbfounded the captain, as he had passed over the same spot many times before and never noticed it. He thought it was formed by some volcanic eruption or submarine explosion. The current flowing south-southeast was noticed as a most unusual occurrence, and the log registered 135 miles to the Passes, when the true distance by chart is only 104, thus showing the strength of its flow.

The captain said he thought some very great disturbance had taken place in the gulf, and that it would be necessary for the government to send a ship to make a search for any new shoals or currents. This shoal was not the one reported by the captain of the Albert Dumas some days ago, as that shoal was only 10 miles from the mouth of the Pass, while this one was at least 125. The captain did not make any soundings, therefore he did not know the exact depth of water.

"BLIND TIGERS" FLOURISH.

Over 200 Opened in Charleston in One Short Hour.

CHARLESTON, April 21.—The news of the handing down of the dispensary law decision by the state supreme court was received here shortly after 10 a. m. An hour later upwards of 200 "blind tigers" had recovered their eyesight and were in full blast. Many of them hung out signs inviting the passersby to "walk in and have one with the house," and people were by no means loath to accept the invitation. There was no lack of stimulants in the city, as an immense stock had been laid in when the dispensary constabulary engaged in the Darlington riot.

The general impression here is that Governor Tillman will call an extra session of the general assembly to pass a new law and then take it up to the state supreme court, which on July 1 will be Tillmanite in politics by the qualification of Justice E. B. Gary.

The town is very quiet, although whisky may be had at any saloon in the city. This has been the case, indeed, ever since the dispensary law went into operation on July 1, 1892. The difference is, however, that mixed drinks and other liquors are passed over the bar openly. The action of the governor is watched here with great anxiety.

Decide Not to Strike.

BRAZIL, Ind., April 21.—Twenty delegates, representing over 2,000 miners, met here yesterday to determine the question of continuing work until May 1 or joining the strike. Secretary Kennerly of the United Mine Workers' association asked permission to address the delegates, but was promptly barred. After considerable wrangling a vote was taken, and it was decided by a large majority to continue work until May 1.

An Ohio Ship Canal.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Representative Van Voorhis of Ohio has introduced a bill for a survey of a ship canal route connecting Lake Erie and the Ohio river by way of the Ohio canal and Muskingum river. It is to have a sufficient depth to transport the largest boats of the great lakes.

Mad. Joniaux's Crimes.

ANTWERP, April 21.—It is rumored that Mad. Joniaux, who is under arrest on charges of having poisoned her sister, brother and uncle, in order to obtain the insurance on their lives, has confessed her guilt under the three charges. It is said that she procured large quantities of morphine from chemists in Brussels by means of forged orders. She originally obtained an order for a quantity of the drug, and used copies of that order whenever she desired to obtain new supplies.

License in Illinois.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 21.—Attorney General Folney has rendered an opinion that there is no law on the Illinois statutes authorizing the authorities of cities and towns to submit the question of license; that it is done presumably to feel the public pulse in the matter, but if the voters vote for or against the license it has no binding force in law upon the authorities, and they may grant or refuse license according to their own views.

"All Hands Lost."

ASTORIA, Or., April 21.—A bottle picked up on Clatsop beach contained a small piece of blotting paper on which was written: "Ship Mary Brown stranded off Alaskan coast this day and all hands lost. Anyone finding this please notify San Francisco papers." The communication was written with pencil and was signed C. D. Cummings, New York; C. L. Bushush, San Francisco, and T. J. Peabody, Pennsylvania.

Had a Fight With the Gang.

WICHITA, Kan., April 21.—Reliable information has reached here that a fight occurred between a sheriff's posse and the gang which freed the murderer of Winterruth from the Newkirk jail, in the Sand Hills of Cheyenne county, yesterday. It is said that two of the desperadoes were wounded, and one of them, named Scott, killed. Two of the posse were also slightly wounded.

Blew His Head Off.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., April 21.—Robert McKee, a prominent and wealthy farmer living near this city, blew his head off with a double-barreled shotgun. Last summer his brother was blown to pieces before his eyes by the explosion of a stationary engine. Ever since he has acted strangely, and his mind was heavily affected by the terrible nature of the casualty.

ONE GIRL'S FUNERAL.

It Was In the Early Days of Montana and Was Different From Most Funerals.

During the construction days of the Northern Pacific railroad many small towns were born that flourished until the road was completed and then died. The little story following actually occurred and made an impression on me that I shall never forget. To me there was a tinge of sadness that went straight to the heart. I occupied the exalted position of justice of the peace. Now, a justice of the peace in Montana in early days was a bigger man than the chief justice of the United States is today and had a perpetual variety entertainment. He married people, buried the dead, put out fires, took a drink with everybody, refereed dog fights, settled family rows, preached, made speeches and had to be ready for any kind of work. For this aggregation of duties he was called judge, but if he rendered a wrong decision his name was Dennis.

One cold morning I was waited upon by a delegation of gamblers and informed that one of the girls was dead. They said she had passed in her checks during the night, and as she was the slickest girl in the camp she was to have a 24 carat sendoff and no mistake. I went around to see the body to find out, if possible, the cause of her death. I was satisfied that the girl had taken morphine and died from the effects, and so I rendered my decision, which satisfied all. I set the hour for the funeral and returned to the cabin to prepare my remarks. There was not a Bible in the camp, and so I had to play it alone. It was a cold, stormy Montana winter day, and that added much to the sadness of the occasion. The grave was dug out among the pines, and a more God forsaken place it would have been hard to find, but it was the best we had or could get.

The hour arrived; the procession formed, myself in front of the pallbearers, consisting of gamblers, with the body in a rough pine box. Next came the girls of the town and the business men in the rear. We wended our way slowly to the last resting place, where, alone and unknown, amid the rocks and pines, with the awful stillness of the mountains, all that was earthly of that unfortunate girl would stay until the last day.

No one could pray; no one could sing. I poured out my soul to my God in my poor, stumbling way—told him all about it. We were unanimous in the belief that she was more sinned against than sinning, and would he in his infinite goodness and loving kindness forgive her, wipe out all the black spots on her soul, forget her past and save her for her soul's sake? Would he suspend all rules, throw open wide the portals of heaven, have sweetest music played on a thousand golden harps and bid that poor, tired, sin stained soul enter the realms of happiness, purity and rest?

It was our funeral, because everybody did all they could. There were but few of all kinds, to be sure, but humans with souls to save. There are many of the old boys scattered through the northwest who will recollect that stormy Montana day, and how we knocked at eternity's door for admittance for that girl's soul, and all will agree that our knocking was not in vain—that the gates were thrown open and forgiveness and rest came to her.—Orting Oracle.

Silk Workers on a Strike.
PATERNON, N. J., April 21.—The striking ribbon weavers are preparing for the tramp to New York. Six striking broad silk weavers were arrested Thursday for inciting riot at the Paragon silk mill. Six girls were also arrested on complaint of Joseph Bamford of Bamford Brothers, silk manufacturers, for intimidating nonunion weavers. The 8,000 silk dyers in this city decided to march to the city hall and demand work of the city authorities. They will also ask aid for their starving families of the poormaster.

Charges Dismissed.
COLUMBUS, O., April 21.—Proceedings in disbarment, instituted against ex-Prosecuting Attorney Cyrus W. Huling, were concluded yesterday and the charges dismissed. The case was heard by the four common pleas judges sitting. Huling was charged with being in a conspiracy to pack a jury for the hearing of the case of ex-Sheriff Inspector McDonald, charged with misappropriating state funds.

Life Convict Gets Away.
PORTSMOUTH, O., April 21.—Two cars, containing the desperadoes bound for Brooklyn, passed through here last night. At South Portsmouth it was discovered that a Kansas life prisoner had escaped. The train and surroundings were well searched, to no avail.

Death of an Ex-Sheriff.
ZANESVILLE, O., April 21.—Ex-Sheriff Ballou died at his home in this city. He was a first cousin of the late President Garfield, and served two terms as sheriff of Muskingum county.
